

DOUG GOES HOME!

After a very long couple of days, Doug was discharged from the hospital and sent home. And while most of us would be happy to go home, Doug actually "dug it" at the University of Minnesota, and seemed to want to hang around. He told us, "Lots of people, lots of dogs, food - it wasn't a bad gig overall..."

Go forward for Doug is repeated wormings, antibiotics for a low grade UTI, and some more blood work as things improve to keep an eye on a few things - kidney function is not perfect, and he's got some low grade knee issues, but not bad for older dog that has lived the kind of life Doug has. Nothing too big to worry about - just to keep an eye on.

We got to the University, paid his bill, and then waited for him to come out. I looked up and saw him on his way across the lobby, looking 100% more alert than Monday night. And when he caught sight of Edi, his eyes lit up. He was so happy to see her!

Doug was very happy to see that Edi remembered to bring his Flat Fox toy. He wanted to play with his toy, but he was torn between that and exploring all the great dog and cat smells in the lobby.

Hawk the Hero

Hawk is actually looking for a new forever home where he can hang out and be spoiled between donations. Do we know if Hawk's blood is now coursing through Doug's veins? No, we don't. But they gave each other a sly wink and nod of the head as they passed in the lobby, so we have our opinion.... And if Doug suddenly develops the urge to RUN LIKE THE WIND, we'll let you know....

We sat and ran through the paperwork and had a nice long chat with the fabulous Dr. Amanda Stiller and soon-to-be Dr. Angie Jung (she graduates in a month!) about all things parasitical and what we'll be doing going forward. Doug, however, was bored and just wanted to go home.

THANK YOU! THANK YOU! THANK YOU...

... for all of the good thoughts, karma, prayers and wishes. I know it made it a difference! Fox Terrier lovers are like no others! I am sure we'll have more good updates to come. Doug has come from being a "nothing dog" in a puppy mill - where he was just a number, if even that - to being "Everyone's Pet" with SO many people that love and care about him. It makes even the Grinchiest heart grow three times that day!

Doug says THANK YOU to Dr. Judi Funk and staff at Compassionate Care Animal Hospital, and Dr. Lindsay Merkel, Dr. Jeff Todd, Dr. Amanda Stiller and soon-to-be Dr. Angie Jung and all the staff at the University of Minnesota for the excellent care and love and compassion that he felt in everyone's hands. And he'd like to thank his "blood brother" Hawk, and all the dogs and cats like Hawk and their owners for giving of themselves so that others may live.

~Love to all of you from Doug
